Tuesday's Election

State Senator Leonard Muse, of Roanoke, has advanced the strongest argument we have yet seen for the election next Tuesday of the Democratic nominees. Senator Muse points out that the general assembly of Virginia is overwhelmingly Democratic. There are a mere handful of Republicans in the two branches of the legislature. Any person elected Governor of Virginia on a Republican ticket would be hopelessly weakened in his dealings with the law-making body by the absence of a following there. His hands would be tied. In the period of reconversion from war conditions and in the face of other trying problems, it would be a costly experiment to risk having a Republican Governor and a Democratic Assembly.

If the Republicans in Virginia intend that the State needs two parties of nearly equal strength, then the place for them to build up their strength is in the General Assembly and before hoping to win the state's top elective office.

The strongest argument for the election of William M. Tuck is that he has the confidence of and the assured cooperation of the majority of the General Assembly. Government is teamwork. We should get teamwork with Tuck as Governor. From all we hear his Republican opponent, Mr. Landreth, is an able individual, but there could be no teamwork in Richmond with a Republican serving as Governor and so very, very few Republicans in the Assembly.

We, therefore, submit that it is to the best interest of the people of Virginia to support the Democratic nominees next Tuesday.

Not Ours Alone, Forever

While American political leaders are basking in the glory of having exclusive possession of the "secret" of the atomic bomb, surely somebody in America should be thinking the approaching time when at least Russia and Germany, and perhaps other nations will perfect an atomic bomb just as good, and maybe better and cheaper than ours. The idea of America being able to keep this "secret" is absurd.

Cut off a nation from nitrates, or rubber or any other thing needed for its survival, and it still could work out something else just as good. You can control many things, but not the mind.

The way we act in the few short months when we alone have the atomic bomb may influence how others act when they have one as powerful.

Senators George and Russell

It has been charged that Senators George and Russell, of Georgia, would like to get a discharge from the Army for football star Trippi, so he could play for the Georgia team this fall. We have not seen the charge refuted or denied. Trippi had about 40 "points" and men are returning overseas for discharges with twice that many points.

No wonder "keep it out of politics" is an expression often heard.

Lee Theatre Anniversary

Congratulations are in order for the Lee Theatre on the occasion of its Tenth Anniversary. Appomattox is justly proud of its movie house and its excellent management. Especially noteworthy has been the participation of the Lee Theatre in the successful war bond drives in our county and the Lee Theatre has won statewide recognition in this respect. We note with pleasure the plans of the management of the Lee Theatre for expansion and wish them all success.

Labor Troubles

This newspaper finds it hard to get excited about the "wave of strikes" and labor - management [illegible] in the nation. One reason is that we are located in a community free from such trouble. Appomattox County has a remarkably "even" economy. Income does not fluctuate here as much as it does in some other communities. Even our farm income is fairly consistent. And our timber and our [illegible] find steady markets.

Our industries are of the type that find ready markets. We are blessed.

Another reason is that we feel there is no danger of an alarming depression over the nation for a number of years yet. Pent up demand for consumer goods and vast reserves of savings with which to buy can only mean that business will be good for several years at least. The time to worry will be when savings are spent and production exceeds demand. The high wages of wartime will level off, to be sure, but labor is right in seeking as high wages as conditions permit, for that will insure continuance of buying power. And buying power will keep production going after the reserve of wartime savings has been spent.

Appomattox citizens should be thankful that they live in a community whose economy is firmly founded, and free from the bitter conflict of management and labor.

Some Victory Loan Facts

Washington, D. C.—Victory Loan facts, honoring the men and women who won the war, are as follows:

Dates: October 29 through December 8.

Quotas: $11,000,000,000; 4 billion in individual sales, 2 billion in Series E sales, 7 billion from other non-bank investors.

Reason: Treasury balance will be drained by December. Money is vitally needed for hospitalization, rehabilitation, retraining, feeding and clothing men overseas, transportation home, payment of munitions already used.

Farmers Have Less to Worry Them This Time

Washington, D. C.—Farm prices stand at 206 per cent of the 1909-1914 average —higher than the prices of 1918—and will drop again but not as sharply as in 1921 because the Government is required by law to maintain support prices of at least 90 per cent of parity for two full calendar years following the year in which the war ends, The Department of Agriculture has announced.

The announcement indicates the farmer will not be a victim of a drop in prices similar to that which followed the last war in 1921 when prices hit the low of 115 per cent of the May, 1920, level which was 226 per cent of the 1909-1914 level. Thus the farmer will have more money than after the last war.

War Finance Committee officials said that in addition to the maintenance of the price level for two years, the nonfarm families already have, and are accumulating, weekly savings through the Payroll Savings Plan of the War Finance Division of the Treasury. This, they claim is proof the non-farm front will be much better able to support itself than after the last war during the normal lull of reconversion. Buyers of farm products will have the money to buy, it was said, and farmers should avail themselves of the opportunity to acquire War Bonds during the Victory Loan so as to have the money with which to modernize and handle the non-farm market demands that will be backed with cash to pay sustained prices during the two years after fighting ceases.

The Payroll Saving Plan has sold $18,000,000,000 in War Bonds to wage earners, that great bulk of non-farmers who will, if need be, enjoy the fruits of their savings in the reconversion period and have the cash with which to support themselves.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. [illegible]

President Truman to his idea of developing his line of effort further for peace. Mr. Truman cut up OSS, sending part to the War Department, but most to State. The Donovan notion of hiring someone like Sumner Welles, the career diplomat, to keep himself and independent watch on the inner international world, was left hanging in air—somewhat foggy air.

General Donovan has never been a glamour boy. He is a rather crusty soldier-lawyer. Those who know what he did in the confidential aerial agent part of the war say his work in the Balkans particularly was excellent and could have been done by no one else as well. Into his organization, however, crept a number of persons who did not fit the best nature of the endeavor and gave it distaste with Congress. I think this fairly sums up OSS. It did great work, but was not popular. (I can never learn what accomplishes popularity in this era when a bank robber can possibly attain it by merely being for the 20-hour week or some such social innovation.)

In the wake of this peculiar condition, congressmen are arising to shout "There will be no American Gestapo," and I assume also they mean no OGPU or NKDV. Indeed there will not. But there is a grave danger that the first vital necessity for a secure postwar world will be ignored and shunted aside by muddleheaded political thinking about it.

If you thought Pearl Harbor a surprise and blitz warfare sudden as lightning, you are already old-fashioned and obsolete in your thinking. The next war will start like a flash—the brilliant, blinding flash of the atomic bomb. If our defenses were ready at such function. Third, give him full responsibility to act on his own authority."

How, I inquired, does this fit in with your military experience, having had some of that branch of adventure myself—although running a platoon isn't running an army.

"It's a good deal like the army," he answered. "You have your staff. You have say 20 sections, each with a special function, working under your chief of staff. Sometimes, of course, you group some of the functions, but the organization is along functional lines."

And how, I asked, do you choose the men to head up these various activities? His answer came back without the slightest hesitation.

"I choose a man, first for his ability, second for his loyalty—and I count heavily on the loyalty. Get loyal men of ability and you've gone a long way toward solving your problems in any organization."

That sounded pretty good to me, but what about the present situation where, after all, there is always a Congress on Capitol Hill, a Congress with constituents who have votes and some of whom want jobs. I asked the General, what about politics? He didn't seem worried. He said that he hadn't had any trouble.

"I'm not a politician," he said. "I never intend to be, for either." That was all he would say, but here is a story I picked up later at the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue.

A certain Congressman got a hot letter from a constituent who had been fired from the Veterans' Administration. No doubt with due cause. He hot-footed it up to the General and spoke, as Congressmen often do to officials, with considerable vigor.

"I want the man re-hired at once," the Congressman demanded. The General was polite but sorry.

Nazis to Face War Trial

...ire Gestapo, S. S. Listed ...s Criminals; Death for Big Shots Sure.

...SHINGTON. — Following the ...rst trial of big-shot criminals ...e in Nuremberg next month, it ...expected that 200,000 to 400,000 ...ers will be placed on trial on ...rges of wartime criminal actions. ...liable and informed official gave ...figures to the United Press. ...wenty-four persons already have ...named for the master trial, ...ich will be conducted by commis...ers of the United States, France, ...Britain and the Soviet Union. ...group includes Hermann ...ring, Nazi No. 2 and other ...Nazi bigs and other ...ers of the world is the Church. The home which we have been studying in recent weeks, is the primary unit of society, but its relationships are primarily of a personal nature. In the church there is an organized fellowship within a God-made institution, the living organism through which the Lord brings such blessing to the world —the Church.

Here, in God's house, among God's people, the believer finds strength and joy. The Lord's people are:

I. Different Yet United (vv. 3-6). God is not interested in uniformity, but He does want unity in the Church are all types of gifts and personalities, each one useful to God. He does not want them all reduced to that drab uniformity which characterizes so many man-made products.

Prophecy, ministry, teaching, giving, ruling — yes, all the various works to which God calls men should be done diligently for His glory. No man is to think of himself as more or less useful to God. His work is different, but it is God's work, and when all serve as they should there is unity and efficiency in the accomplishing of His blessed purpose.

The unity of believers in Christ (v. 5) is something which needs emphasis in our day. The forces of Protestantism are so divided as to be largely ineffective in many important fields.

Not only are they divided but there are almost endless divisions within denominations — yes, and even in local churches. Sometimes there are issues which cannot be met except by separation, but there are also many unnecessary divisions, dishonoring to God and weakening to the Church.

Let's remember we can be different (God wants us to be!) but we can still be united! God wants that, too!

II. Active Yet Kind (vv. 9-11). God puts no premium on laziness or indifference. We are not to be "slothful," but "fervent" in spirit, remembering that the Lord is alive but inactive. It professes to have a zeal for God, but if there is any fervency of spirit, in most places it must be well hidden. But that is not possible, is it?

How much we need a stirring revival in the Church to bring the people of God into active service for Him. If your church as a whole does not respond to the Lord's Word, why do you not as an individual ask God to revive His fire in your heart?

There is to be a humility (v. 10), a fine cleanness of thought and life (v. 9), an unfeigned love for the brethren (v. 9), along with all the fervency of spirit and zeal for service.

There is much talk of uniting Christendom and no little danger of compromise for the sake of an outward unity. Such schemes are destined to failure, but unity in Christ, which recognizes Him as the divine Head of the Church, that we do desperately need and should seek for His glory, for the good of the Church and for the blessing of a world lost in sin and strife.

III. Troubled Yet Peaceful (vv. 15-16).

The Church of Christ is in the world to witness for and to serve Him. Hence, it must face all the persecutions and trials which an unbelieving world will bring upon it. Christians are not exempt from the troubles and sorrows common to all mankind.

Therein we find one of the great opportunities for effective witness for us the Christian and the Church rightly meet such difficulties, they testify to the grace of God which can give peace in one's heart in the midst of turmoil and distress.

Read the verses. Persecuted, but not embittered thereby; weeping but also rejoicing; meeting evil with good and cowardliness with boldness; meeting pride with humility and division with unity; yes, fearing at peace (as far as it is possible) in a belligerent world.

There is something essentially fine and noble and inspiring about the Christian Church wherever and whenever it lives up to the Lord's purpose for it and its members. There is something dismal and discouraging about the Church when it fails the Lord and His mighty cause.

Some feel that the Church is in just such a state of failure and impotence in our day. If it is true of your church, why not pray and work for a revival which will sweep all the deadness out and bring in a new refreshing breath of power from the very throne of God? Do it now!

Solid Study Back Of FBI Efficiency

Training Course Is Equal to Two Years of College.

WASHINGTON.—To catch a criminal you have to know more than he does. This simple axiom is the keynote of the world's most intensive law enforcement training course — that of the G-men. Their initial 16 weeks of schooling are the equivalent of two years of college.

At present the FBI has some 4,200 special agents. Their jurisdiction includes over 100 different types of criminal violations, and they have to be prepared for any eventuality. Special agent applicants must be 25 to 40 years of age, in perfect physical condition, and college graduates with training in law or accounting. Those who meet the requirements are given a 10-week course in the United States citizens of unquestioned loyalty whose backgrounds and reputations are without blemish. Each applicant is carefully investigated.

Their training is carried on at the FBI headquarters in Washington and at the FBI academy — the West Point of law enforcement — at Quantico, Va. The FBI's firearms ranges are near the academy, and there the special agents practice with the revolver, rifle, sub-machine gun, shotgun and other weapons. The wooded area immediately adjacent to the range is used for outdoor crime scene practice searches. Some members of these organizations properly will escape punishment, the United Press was informed, on grounds that they were forced into membership and coerced obedience.

The Nuremberg master trial is expected to be the last joint prosecution by the four powers. The thousands of additional individuals will be tried by local courts of various lands, including military courts and courts of liberated states.

The 24 master trial defendants in Nuremberg almost unquestionably will be executed, the United Press was informed. One still is missing. Martin Bormann, Hitler's secretary, has been accounted for.

Proof Is Complete.

The German prisoners are described as an unprepossessing lot, some sexually perverted and others addicted to the habitual use of drugs. The proof against them is said to be so complete, conclusive and unanswerable as to astonish even officials who knew the men were guilty but foresaw some technical difficulties in obtaining satisfactory proof.

The four powers are determined to make an "indisputable record" in the master trial. It will be of such detailed and overwhelming nature as to make it impossible 10 or 20 or 30 years from now for anyone to start a propaganda campaign attempting to show that the trials were unfair.

The method of execution has not been determined. The U. S. army opposes shooting convicted war criminals because military men regard death by gunfire as an honorable exit.

Convicted defendants at the master trial probably will be hanged. Others also may be executed, but it is not unlikely that the 300,000 to 400,000 additional trials now foreseen will much more often end in prison or forced labor sentences. Anyway, that is a matter for local courts.

Touring in Canada Back To Prewar Proportions

OTTAWA. — The end of gasoline rationing has boomed tourist traffic in Canada to prewar proportions, from coast to coast, thousands of Americans are swarming across the border to eat meat, catch fish and enjoy the scenery.

A survey by the Canadian Press at various border points disclosed motor traffic from the United States in some cases was four times as great as before August 15, when gasoline rationing was lifted.

Tourist bureaus are busy trying to find accommodation for the visitors, most of whom say they are traveling "as far as the tires will carry us."

Youngest Iceman Drives Goat to Make Deliveries

BELTON, MO. — Ice deliveries have been on schedule since 10-year-old Dickie Quick took over the business after the town's regular iceman quit the job. Enterprising Dickie bought a $2 goat to furnish the motive power for his red delivery wagon.

It took delivery profits on the first 1,000 pounds of ice to pay for William, the goat. Extra feed for the hot and numerous ice cream sodas for Dickie run up the overhead costs and yet the young iceman nets a profit from his charge of five cents for each 25 pounds of ice delivered to housewives and business firms.

Predict Lush Market On American Farms

WASHINGTON.—American agriculture offers industry and labor a rich market in the immediate postwar years, the agriculture department said.

A departmental survey shows that one farmer in four says he plans to buy a tractor or other farm machinery, one in five an automobile or truck.

25,000 Mice Had Role In Atomic Bomb Project

BAR HARBOR, MAINE. — More than 25,000 white-footed mice were part of the Manhattan project which developed the atomic bomb, it was disclosed here.

Dr. Clarence C. Little, president and director of the Roscoe B. Jackson Memorial laboratory, a cancer research organization which raises mice for medical experimentation, told the annual meeting of the laboratory that the war department received a large share of the 312,-844 mice shipped from the laboratory in the last year.

Between 23,000 and 30,000 went to Manhattan project, he said, to determine if irradiation from the elements used in manufacture of the bomb would have any effects upon workers in the atomic bomb plants. The army still is continuing experiments with the mice, Dr. Little said, to determine if irradiation would effect either the mice exposed to it or their descendants. The final report on the experiments, he said, will not be made for a long time.

Controls Are Dropped On Synthetic Rubber

WASHINGTON.—The war production board has lifted its restrictions on the use of reclaimed and scrap rubber and all synthetic rubber except butyl.

The action authorized the manufacture of bathing caps, bath mats, fly swatters and many other rubber household products.

Butyl, the special-purpose type of synthetic used chiefly for tire inner tubes, and natural rubber remained under rigid control.

WPB promised some rubber toys for Christmas as well as many thousands of other familiar civilian items that disappeared during the war.

Among other items freed are bobby pin curlers, rubber gloves, soap dishes, window wipers, sport shoes, boxers' rubber mouth pieces, battery cases, rubber flooring, stair treads and weatherstripping.

The order also lifted restrictions on the use of sponge rubber in cushions and mattresses.

Flat-Trajectory Mortar Ready at End of War

EDGEWOOD ARSENAL, MD. — The war's end silenced a new chemical, flat-trajectory mortar before it could be used against the Japanese, the army disclosed recently. The lightweight weapon was in the field when the cease fire order came. The flat trajectory permits fire straight into the elbow openings, caves and dugouts. It was made possible by a driver-type rocket mechanism. The mortar weighs only 170 pounds.

Many 'Forgotten Items' Clutter Public Library

DALLAS.—The "forgotten items" drawer at the public library holds a "bunch of junk."

However, there are a few valuable articles such as ration books and lecture notes.

Miss Clanton said that bulky articles usually are noticed when books are turned in, but items like photographs, unmailed letters, social security cards and book markers are overlooked.

Height Is Increased For Airplane Hostess

KANSAS CITY, MO. — Air hostesses may look different lately, according to Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., officials.

The reason is that they're taller than they used to be.

The airline has upped the height requirements for hostess applicants by 1 inch — from the former 5 feet, 5 inches to 5 feet, 6 inches.

Short Shirt Tails Will Continue in Style, W. P. B.

WASHINGTON. — War-born stubby shirt tails and collarless pajamas may continue in style awhile.

The industry, WPB reported recently, wants to retain the restrictions until it's sure plenty of cotton fabric will be available.

Meanwhile, the agency announced that fabric manufacturers no longer need set aside part of their production for priority orders when no such orders are on the books.

University of Virginia has state's best football record.

To the People of this Community

Take up from your favorite retail merchant. His Christmas counters are stocked for the first time since 1939 with commodities you dreamed about in the darkness of war. And he and his employees will be limit today in telling you for your own good to buy "something else" first.

As a wartime thrifty American you need not be told that the name of this product is Victory Bond, that it can never be worth less than you pay for it, that it will return $4 for every $3 invested when held to maturity 10 years hence, that it is your personal savings account at the same time it is serving your country's current needs, and that it will assure you not only a merry Christmas this year but help to make Christmas merry in the years to come. Your merchant knows a great product. That's why he is putting every effort to stuff the Christmas stockings of this community with extra Victory Bonds.

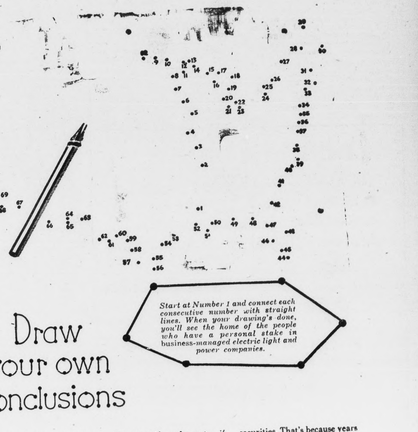
Draw your own conclusions


Start at Number 1 and connect each consecutive number with straight lines. When your drawing's done, you'll see the home of the people who have a personal stake in business-managed electric light and power companies.

IT'S A FACT. Almost everybody has a personal stake in America's self-supporting, taxpaying electric companies.

There are millions of people on the stockholder lists of these companies — housewives, farmers, nurses, teachers, mechanics. You may be one of these many direct owners.

But even if you're not — if you have a savings account or life insurance policy — you're included among the indirect owners of this industry.

Your savings bank and insurance company put your deposits and premiums to work. A lot of your money goes into electric light and power securities. That's because years of dependable service and good business management on the part of the electric companies have made their securities a sound investment.

Next time you hear anybody talking about the owners of the electric industry — remember, they're talking about you!
